Mary Nancy, infant daughter of Jas. Miller of Hale, passed back to her Maker Friday.

Children playing with matches set fire to the barn of Chas. Broyley, near Hale, Monday. It burned to the ground.

Lige Stilwell of Plymouth went to Illinois last week to visit a brother he had not seen for 34 years.

Friday evening Miss Glen Goodson of Carrollton, while at the skating rink, fell and hurt herself seriously.

Mrs. John Tarpley of Kansas City died Friday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jos. Chaney of Carrollton.

There are three or four families in Carrollton reported to be in indigent circumstances. The "poor committee" is greatly overtaxed.

Garfield Nunley, a Carrollton negro, was locked in jail Saturday on the charge of holding up and robbing a man of $35 on a freight train.

A house belonging to Jasper Campbell of near Carrollton caught fire Thursday night and burned. There was a small amount of insurance.

At the masked carnival in Carrollton Friday evening the prizes for fancy dress costumes were awarded to Miss Lulu Riley and Joe Turpin. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chauncey were awarded the prizes for the most comic costumes.

D. A. Ashbrook and Dick Blankenship, both of Carrollton, were hunting ducks together Wednesday afternoon, using the same blind. Dick attempted to shoot at a flock of ducks, and at the moment he pulled the trigger of his gun, Ashbrook raised his gun, too. The entire charge of shot from Dick's gun struck the end of Ashbrook's gun barrel, going clear through it and ruining both barrels.

MARRIAGES.

John Marlow and Miss Lydia Peeler, both of Norborne.

Thos. Cunningham and Miss Bessie Bell, both of Sugartree township.

Geo. T. Bunnell and Miss Laura E. Hull, both of Hale.

John Baird and Miss Grace P. Pryor, both of Bogard.

Thos. B. Woods, formerly of Marshall, died of heart disease in Kansas City last week.

Amos Krugger of Miami took a shot at some geese last week on the wing at a distance of about a half mile and brought down one.

Dr. G. A. Richart of Elmer was kicked by a horse Monday in a runaway accident and an ugly wound was inflicted on his leg.

George Giles Hawkins, 63 years old, died of cancer Friday after a long illness at his home, 10 miles from Marshall. Deceased was born in Knox county, Mo.

Stella, a little daughter of Elias Johnson of Slater, who was burned severely on February 8, died Monday at the home of her uncle, Jas. Davenport.

The ice bridge across the river at Miami did not last this time. The river cleared quickly and the mail-carriers succeeded in getting over in a short time.

Dr. F. A. Snoddy observed some time ago that his corn was disappearing faster than conditions warranted, and with a vague suspicion in his mind that some one might be stealing it, he concluded to put a burglar alarm on his barn door. Last Wednesday morning about 1 o'clock the alarm sounded in the doctor's residence. After considerable persuasion on the part of his wife the doctor got up, and he and his son, Fred, went to exits of the barn. They could distinctly hear the rustling of corn shucks in the interior and knew they had their game. A light was procured and its rays revealed the outlines of George Pryor, a colored boy, in whom the doctor had previously had great faith. The fact that he had been the family physician for a number of years, possibly modified the doctor's actions when he caught the boy with the sack of corn, which he said he was "gis gitin' for my chickens." He was released on his word of honor that he would appear at the doctor's office next morning, but at a late hour he had not appeared.—Slater Rustler.

MARRIAGES

Jas. Utz of Fairville and Miss Lottie Brooks of Marshall.
